

Joe Browning named Greenville Health Authority chief of police

From Michael Hildebrand, Greenville Health Authority president

I am pleased to announce that Joe Browning has been named chief of police for Greenville Health Authority (GHA). Joe has worked for the Greenville City Police Department since 1995, most recently serving as the administrative police captain. In that role, Joe was responsible for special events within Greenville City, budget administration, training and policy management.

Within one week of posting the vacancy, we received numerous applications from a diverse range of highly qualified applicants. From there, we narrowed the candidate pool down to four finalists who each met with a panel of GHA police officers and a panel composed of physicians and campus leaders, among others. Through all of this, Joe stood out as the right person to lead the department into the future.

His first day with us will be Monday, Sept. 9.
